

Our Heritage – A whole history of wholesale.

In 1932, health food stores were still a relatively new idea, and finding supplies could be both difficult and expensive.

So to centralise buying and help each other to get the best terms and prices, 50 stores from as far afield as Aberdeen and Devon got together to set up Health Stores (Wholesale) Limited.

Today much has changed and The Health Store has evolved into a state of the art organisation supplying customers all over the UK, Ireland, Europe and as far away as Hong Kong. We are one of the largest wholesalers in our industry and as stated above, definitely the one with the longest history of trading.

We trade with professionalism, taking an ethical approach to the food we buy for our customers and we insist on remaining completely focussed on the buyers needs.

The Health Store is more than a commercially effective company; it is the buyer's best choice for range variety, competitive pricing and overall service.
